How the City was Defrauded by Council in the Matter of the Marietta road Subscription.

To the Editors of the Intelligencer

Holding my reputation of some little imporance, as well as that of him who placed fish in the Potomac, I wish the privilege of correcting an error made by correspondent in your paper of yesterday in the following sentence:

"Almost twenty years ago the Marietta & Cincinnati and the Hempfield railroads were voted large subscriptions by our people. These two roads were contracted for in good faith, and the elitorial fraternity of the city backed and endorsed them in good faith."

Times, now in possession of the city, and however it may show my want of influhowever it may show my want of influence as the then editor of the paper, the facts will sustain the correctness of my judgment. There was no vote taken by the people upon the subscription to the subscripti M. & C. road. I did urge a subscription to the C. O. road of $250,000 in Wheeling, and spent money and time to secure that of Belmont and Guernsey counties. The subscription was carried by a vote of 810 to 28, and some of the votes against it were polled, not from opposition to the road, but from personal hatred to my humble self. A "ring" negotiated for property on Wheeling Creek, in Ohio, at dgeport, Island, &., then influenced the council to reluse the bonds unless the directors would bind themselves to bring the road down Wheeling Creek; whereas by subscribing to the road they would have had the power to bring it there and thus save millions to Wheeling. Noah Wilson for the M. & C. road pledged their road to Bridgeport and the Island, and the Council, unauthorized, gave the bonds to that road. My opinion was then, and Is now, that the city ought to have repudiated those bonds as fraudulently procured and given without equivalent or au

The Times never uttered a word in fa vor of the subscription to the Hempfield road by the city, nor did its editor vote for it, as he believed the road was only signed by its engineer. Elet and of its managers as a fraud upon the city.

The corporators of the Mansfield & Wheeling road are united in views, as are the citizens of our city and vicinity, on this: We will have cheap coal as early as possible in such abundance as to supply the northwestern part of the State from the nearest points. Your objective point is, of course, Toledo and the Northwest, as you have a near route to Cleveland.
